Remote & Shelf Coolers

Any current type of remote, flash or shelf cooler can be refurbished to individual client requirements.

The broad procedure for both shelf and remote coolers follows a similar multi-stage process. Firstly, all units are assessed to determine whether or not they can be refurbished and the clients are notified of any coolers that are beyond repair and are to be included in our scrap disposal programme

Units are then stripped and cleaned prior to the technicians carrying out a series of diagnostic checks before carrying out refurbishment to the agreed specification.

Before despatch all units are subject to a full functionality test, electrical test, and quality inspection, the resulting data is stored electronically for a period a fifteen months
